Message from the CEO

Hanil Food was established in 1986 by the late CEO, Mr. Tae Byung Kim, under the joint venture and technical cooperation with Japan, the home of traditional udon noodle. As the pioneer in the Korean noodle industry, Hanil Food's 'Bon Go Jang Udon' has consistently devoted the past 25 years in the noodle research and development to provide our customers with superior and healthier products. Through the support and encouragement from our customers, we have reached today's growth and development.

Hanil Food is the only domestic noodle manufacturer that applies handmade-like (Deuchi) technique to develop fine quality products that conform to the taste of our customers. Handmade-like quality is a highly sophisticated expertise that Hanil Food developed through careful observation, thorough analysis, and extensive research of the techniques of actual professional noodle experts and transferring these traditional procedures to a hygienic innovative system for an expanded production. Noodles made under these methods guarantee outstanding delicious flavor and chewy but soft texture, attributes that are essential in a noodle, hence enabling our customers to savor exceptional quality noodles. Hanil Food has also developed a unique technique that allows noodles to remain fresh up to six months in room temperature.

Additionally, the Hanil Food difference includes the water. In dedication to provide our customers with the finest noodles, we utilize supreme quality water extracted from a subterranean reservoir 300 meters underground located in Icheon. This reservoir has been valued as one of the best water source in Korea.

Hanil Food delivers noodles to your table as OEM products of large food manufactures and through large wholesale markets and domestic franchises. Our international partners include more than 20 countries in North and South Americas, South East Asia, Australia, and Russia and the numbers are growing evermore each year. As Hanil Food did for the past 25 years, the entire personnel will devote in the continuous development of innovative techniques and quality improvement in the upcoming future, remain committed to our customers, and strive to continually uphold reliability and professionalism.

R&D

Since the foundation in 1986, Hanil Food has pursued persistently to earn professionalism in the development and production of noodles. As a result of continuous promotion of our effort in research and development in collaboration with the leading domestic and international food manufacturers, we have received an enormous positive appraisal from our customers throughout the world.

Hanil Food will spare no effort in the investment in research and development and strive to continuously diversify, improve, and globalize the products to deliver satisfaction, healthier life, and joy to each of our customers.

Quality Management

Hanil Food adopted the HACCP system that enables to manage any concern that could potentially arise in each step, including warehousing of ingredients, manufacturing, processing, distribution up to prior to consumption, and closely evaluate the source of the concern. Under the guidance of our principle that values the safety and stability of our products as the utmost importance, our endeavor is to provide the most hygienic products to our customers. Acquired Certification of SGS HACCP and ISO 22000 in 2006.

Current Technology

Through application of thorough hygiene management and special processing technique, we are producing 'Long Life noodle' that remains fresh up to six months without any utilization of preservatives in our state-of-the-art production line. In our 'demomi' production line, we are producing chewy but soft fresh noodles from dough that resembles kneading with human hands.

- * Registered brands: Bon Go Jang, Deuchi, N Udon
- * FDA registered (FCE No.09271)

Production Facility

The plant was established in an optimum environment that boasts clean surroundings and supreme quality subterranean water reservoir and is operated with the state-of-the-art noodle manufacturing equipment directly imported from Japan. Under the policies of HACCP and FDA, we have adopted a very strict quality management system. Other state-of-the-art equipments include fully automated sterilizing and packing systems.
